

You have a choice.

Life is about making choices. Every choice we make comes with consequences. Parenting is full of choices to make; some easy, some hard. At Adoption Life we support you in considering the choices you are faced with in your current situation. Our goal is to help you work through all the options, consequences, thoughts, and feelings associated with the choice you are faced with. We can't make this choice for you, but we can support you so you don't have to make it alone.

There isn't one right choice for everybody. Let us help support you in making the best choice for you and your unborn child.

"A child born to another woman calls me mom. The depth of tragedy and the magnitude of the privilege are not lost on me."

- Jody Landers

Parent or Place

Discovering an unplanned pregnancy leads to a hard decision:

Am I ready to parent this child?

Not everybody who finds themselves pregnant is ready for parenthood.

Sometimes the most loving act a parent can do, is deciding to place their child for adoption.

Making an adoption plan is not giving away your child; it's not shirking your responsibility; it's not taking the easy way out.

When parents choose to place their child with an adoptive family, it is a selfless and loving act.

If you choose to place your child for adoption, you will receive support throughout your pregnancy and after. You will choose the family you want to raise your child.

Your role as a birth parent will always be important and sacred, even if you are not involved in the day to day decisions of parenthood. Adoption can be a beautiful and loving choice with many who find themselves dealing with an unplanned pregnancy.

Adoption is Love.

Open or Closed

When it comes to openness, every adoption is different. These days, most adoptions have varying levels of openness, but can also be closed, if desired.

Each adoption is as unique as the individuals involved.

Some families maintain regular contact and spend important holidays together. Some families share photos through neutral third parties, and some feel more comfortable with no ongoing contact.

We'll help you and the adoptive family explore options and decide what feels best for everybody.
